— Overview

Relegen is a groundbreaking, all Australian company, providing a comprehensive range of Asset Management solutions. For some organisations this requires working at a strategic level and for others this involves working at the detailed level of data collection and development.

Experienced in providing Asset Management services to the Australian Defence Force, Relegen understands the principles and processes required to ensure the performance of assets is maximised at an optimum through life cost.

— Asset Management

Asset Management is Relegen's core business. At the acquisition stage it is important to consider the through life costs of design and procurement decisions. Relegen can assist organisations with the modeling required to make these decisions as well as ensure that generalised data provided by OEM's and related suppliers is optimised for the operating environment and is of a suitable quality and format so that it can be used in service.

When it comes to supporting an asset it is vitally important for organisation's that use their maintenance management systems to trigger maintenance, develop budgets and understand through life support costs to develop and maintain an accurate configuration baseline.

Through the use of proprietary and innovative software Relegen assists organisations to work out exactly what they have fitted, what needs to be maintained, at what frequency and at what cost. Often data in a maintenance management system is out of date or incomplete exposing organisations to significant risk in terms of productivity, safety and cost.

— Flexible, Scalable Solutions

Relegen is able to work with organisations of any size as solutions are totally scalable and able to be customised to meet almost any business requirement. Products and services can be delivered in a flexible format either through a licensing agreement or as a fully implemented solution tailored to a client's specific needs.
